Autumn/Winter
2020, Issue 1

Kewpie News

Welcome Message

For this Autumn newsletter, I will draw from my own experience, that most of you will be able to relate to.

After surviving quite a diverse year, recording one of the worst widespread drought and bushfires on record and swine fever breathing down our necks—2019 will be memorable to say the least.

Early 2020 (huge relief) the rain came, with flooding in some regions drowning crops, while on other properties, the dams are still empty.

Soon, the pasture returned with gusto, along with weeds and insect pests. In particular, buffalo fly in numbers not seen previously in this region and still a problem as we enter Autumn. Happily with some cooler nights, this problem will soon be extinguished. Meanwhile, we have a variety of products available (tags, sprays, pour-on & back rubs), to assist with buffalo fly control.

Seasonal worming and tick treatments achieve best results in autumn to reduce pasture egg burdens for the spring rise. It's also important not to forget to vaccinate any weaners retained in the herd to prevent later losses.

Now with maturing pastures, it might also be a prudent to consider which live-stock supplements work best for your enterprise during the coming months ie: liquid, molasses based (Rumifeed), lick blocks (Agricon) or dry eg. Kewpie Dry Lick or your own Custom Mineral Mix.

I don't wish to dwell on Covid19, but as we are now experiencing the restrictions that come with a world pandemic, there are a few points to remember.

Every property where a pig lives requires a Property Identification Code (PIC), whether it’s a large or small herd, keeping pigs for short periods or pet pigs. PICS play a critical part in biosecurity for Australia. Contact Dept Primary Industries PH: 13 25 23 for more information.
